FLOATING PLANTS & ALGAE

ALGAE

In very high densities, algae blooms may discolor the water and out-compete, poison, or asphyxiate other life forms. Some algae are toxic to humans and dogs.

SUBMERGED PLANTS

MILFOIL

Some exotic species of milfoil are very aggressive, displacing native species. Eurasian milfoil is an exotic invasive submersed perennial.

EMERGENT PLANTS

CATTAIL

Cattails are thickly rooted with leaf blades that are long and strap-like flat, about 1" wide, and rounded on the back. The slender stalks range between 3' and 10' tall and are topped by a cigar-shaped "cattail" called a catkin.

PURPLE LOOSESTRIFE

HYDRILLA

Hydrilla is very prolific. It can reproduce four ways: Fragmentation, Tubers, Turions, and Seeds (primary reproduction of Hydrilla is vegetatively with seeds being a minor means of reproduction).
